MEMORANDUM FOR DISTRIBUTION

SUBJECT: Army Science Board Ad Hoc Subgroup on Emerging Human Technologies

Attached is the report of the Army Science Board Ad Hoc Subgroup on Emerging Human Technologies.

This study examines emerging human technologies to determine their applicability to the Army. The study focused on cohesion technology, concentrix, high performance programming, hemi-synch, and suggestive accelerated learning and teaching techniques. The study concluded that the Army should continue to evaluate and test those human technologies which optimize soldier performance or reduce training time.
